

Fine Record Is Revealed In Performance of Business High School Eleven

BUSINESS' RECORD BEST IN SCHOOLS FOR GRID HONORS

Stenographers Have Captured
Every Start Except One,
Which Was a Tie Game.

PLAYS EASTERN TOMORROW

Large Total Looked For In Meeting On Georgetown
Field in Sixth Contest.

By BRYAN MORSE.

When it comes to awarding honors in scholastic football Business High School must be accredited with the best record of any of the scholastic eleven. Tomorrow's game with Eastern in the sixth of the high school title series at Georgetown will probably go to the Stenographers by a large score, as Eastern cannot hope to hold Coach White's eleven to less than three touchdowns.

Business has gone from success to success this season. The team has played in five games, won four of them and tied one. The eleven has totaled more than 150 points, and has been scored upon but once. A glance at the record of the Stenographers in the past two years in all branches of sport save track show conclusively that under Paul White Business' stock has taken a sudden boost.

White coaches baseball and football, and for the past two seasons the Orange and Blue has been a sensation. In both branches of sport the Orange and Blue have been sturdy contenders for the title right up to the final game. This fall no exception for the Orange and Blue fought Tech to a scoreless tie coming closer to handing the Manual Trainers a defeat in football than any other team since Central and Yale in 1914.

Business is tied with Tech for the championship, and from indications the conclusion of the season will be going to find the teams bunched at the top. The Stenographers have played half their games, and have to dispose of Eastern and Western.

Tech must play Central and Eastern in order to conclude its schedule. From indications, the Manual Trainers will come through in both battles.

Eastern will present a crippled eleven against Business tomorrow, and no one is expecting other than a defeat for the Capitol Hill lads. Coach Kimbel is handicapped by the loss of several players via the advisory board. Business has gained Nau, a fine lineman, and has retained all its stars.

Two big games will be played here Saturday. The prep school titleholder, Baltimore, will engage the Orange and Blue at Satterlee Field in the morning, while the Georgetown Preps will battle the Army and Navy Prep School in the afternoon on Georgetown Field.

Talk of a miniature Army-Navy game between the two service schools here may lead to a conflict later in the month. Coach Frank Keeney, of A. N. P. eleven, seems willing to send his team in against the Army and Navy Academy eleven.

Rumor has it that Harry Harris, captain of the Business High School eleven, of the year, is attending the Agricultural College. Harris is at present at Dean Academy in Worcester, Mass. At A. C. at season, the local boys will have a number of replacements in scholastic athletics, including Derrick, Rich, and Royer are playing creditably this fall for Coach Byrd.

M. A. C. has drawn a number of good schoolboy athletes, and no one expects Georgetown to begin to attract Washington schoolboys, while not a few youngsters are taking part in track and basketball at George Washington.

There have been surprisingly few successes in drop-kicks or place-kicks in the title series this season. Out of eight attempts none have been successful so far. In the Central-Tennesses game neither Culligan nor Ochstad connected. Rohrer barely missed a field goal in the Eastern-Western game, the ball striking the bar while Rohrer blew a hard one for Tech on Tuesday.

Three touchdowns scored by Tech against Western is the largest total in any of the five games played to date. Central won the opening battle by a single touchdown. The second game was a scoreless tie. Western took the third battle by two touchdowns. Business won from Central by 14 to 6, while Tech walked Western by 19 to 0.

The longest run of the season was made by "Untz" Brewer against the Marston School of Baltimore, last Saturday. The St. Albans School halfback received the ball from the center while standing two yards behind the goal line, and ran the length of the field for a touchdown.

In the game between Western and Episcopal High School, at Alexandria, early in the season, Superintendent of Episcopal, dropped one while standing on the 47-yard line, which is the longest scoring kick of the year.

Both Central and Tech may still make application to join the Intercollegiate Basketball League this season. While there are but three high schools in the circuit the games are played by these teams under the same rules that the regular high school games are conducted as to eligibility of players.

It will be but one more year before Central is possessor of the best gym in the city and followers of basketball at Central think they might make a start of some kind this season. The central towers have gotten together under Mark DeGeorge and have made considerable progress.

Leroy Hinch, Tech's athletic adviser, is of the opinion that the school and it is understood he will make an appeal to the general organization at Tech to stand behind basketball.

TOURNAMENT PLANS SOON TO TAKE FORM

Organization of A. C. B. A. Company to Hold Monster Event Here Is Next Step.

By KIRK C. MILLER.

The first definite plans for the staging of the second annual tournament of the Atlantic Coast Bowling Association will be decided upon at a meeting of the Washington chapter at the Chamber of Commerce rooms next Wednesday night. At that time the organization of a local tournament company will be effected, after which work of selecting a site for the big event and other details pertaining to the monster task of making things ready can be proceeded with.

Officials of the Washington chapter of the A. C. B. A. wish it distinctly understood that every bowler in the city is welcome to this and any other meetings of the association. Any bowler is eligible to join the A. C. B. A., and when he is a member, has a voice in electing its officers and board of directors. In turn, the board and staff of officers will direct the affairs of the organization in accordance with the wishes of the mass of bowlers.

The A. C. B. A. is an organization of the bowlers and for the benefit of the bowlers. It is not a business organization, and no bowler or manufacturer may hold an executive position of any nature. In this way the wishes of the bowlers may be adhered to the most minute detail, and a healthy normality, always desired by bowlers, is needed of the masses of bowlers is needed to be the natural outcome. The A. C. B. A. is in its second year, and has already achieved a record of success in its infancy that any of the older bowling organizations which thrive on the statement that they are the oldest and largest of the American Bowling Congress and the National Bowling Association, neither of which is conducted by the bowlers and for the bowlers.

V. V. Thompson, who has made a close study of the organization of bowlers, is authority for the statement that neither of the two organizations referred to met with the success in the past which the efforts of the A. C. B. A. in less than eighteen months. In bowling matters throughout the United States Mr. Thompson's ideas and opinions are valued highly, and after a lifetime spent in pursuing the sport, its history, evolution, development, he has come to the conclusion that the broadest and biggest step of conducting the pastime under organized rules and regulations is to put the affairs entirely in the hands of the bowlers. He argues that they are the ones who keep the game alive, on whom the success or failure of the enterprise depends, and that they are the ones to be pleased in the matter of conditions under which the game flourishes.

The assistance of Mr. Thompson in organizing the local tournament company will in all probability be sought by the Washington Chapter, and if this gentleman can be interested in the effort, Washington is making to hold the biggest duckpin, tenpin, and candlepin tournament the East has ever known, then one big step toward its unequalled success will have been accomplished.

STRAIGHT FOOTBALL AGAINST BROWN LADS

Yale's New Board of Coaches
Will Depend Wholly Upon
Old-Fashioned Style.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 4.—It will be straight football for Yale against Brown Saturday, with Alec Wilson running the end and Al Boovill hitting the line, for the new board of coaches means to have an eleven well-grounded in rudimentary football before trying anything radical.

Bob Bingham has been declared eligible and is expected to prove a star at quarterback, even as he was at Exeter two years ago. There is also a chance that he may be placed at halfback, now that Van Nonstrand is showing so much ability at quarterback. The present line-up of the Yale follows: Left end, Hodgett; left tackle, Gates; guard, Kent; center, White; right guard, Jim Sheldon; right tackle, Way; right end, Church; quarterback, Van Nonstrand; left halfback, Bingham; right halfback, Wilson; fullback, Seville.

EXPECT HUGE CROWD TO SEE BIG COMBAT

Thirty Thousand Spectators Will Be Cared For When W. and
J. Faces Pittsburgh.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Nov. 4.—All eyes in Pennsylvania are agog over the football game between the University of Pittsburgh and Washington and Jefferson College, and the largest crowd that ever witnessed a game in the State is looked for. It will be played at Forbes Field, the home of the Pittsburgh National League baseball club, which has a capacity of about 20,000, and the management of the local team is making arrangements to pack the crowd in every available nook and corner of the park. Last year 2,000 saw the annual game, and the interest seems to be even greater this year. The game will start at 2:30 p. m.

It would seem impossible to have more ideal conditions for the annual battle between the two rivals. Both will enter the game undefeated and with wonderful records back of them. The winner will be able to claim honors among the college coaches of the East, and might even go further and claim touch honors. Pitt has won from University of Pennsylvania, the Annapolis Middle, and the Lafayette College, while W. & J. has won from Yale by a decisive score and from Lafayette College.

The two coaches, Glenn Warner, of Pitt, former football mentor of the Carlisle Indians and Cornell University, and "Boh" Folwell, former Penn star, are considered among the leading football authorities of the East. Folwell has turned out winners at W. & J. for the last three years, and the team which seemed like mediocre material and without the services of such stars as Spiegel, Fleming, Patterson, and other football luminaries, he has turned out another great team.

The name of Glenn Warner is known to every football enthusiast in the United States. It is linked with that of Houghton, Stagg, and Yost when the greatest coaches of the East are enumerated. With the Carlisle Indians he turned out phenomenal teams, defeating all the members of the "Big Four" time and again. This is his first year at Pittsburgh, and he has started off with a rush. Pittsburghers who have watched the team closely say it is the best balanced aggregation the university has ever had, and Walter Camp has even gone so far as to tab it the best team in the country today. When these champions clash at Forbes Field November 6, the fun is sure to fly, and the game will be one that will be talked of in western Pennsylvania for many years to come.

Pitt will have the services of all her stars for this game, including freshmen, as the residence rule applied this year to the Penn game only. Next year no freshmen will be played in any games, including that with W. & J. Such stars as McLaren, Gougler, Sies, Seidel, McNulty, and others will be ready for the W. & J. game, and their presence will add strength to the football halfback, who was injured in the Carlisle game, will not be able to play until the Penn State game, and it is just possible that he will not be out for the whole season. This is a hard blow to Pitt, as Miller is a star in every department of the game. His defensive work is always a great aid to the other backs.

TODAY'S SPORTORIAL

By LOUIS A. DOUGHER.

What is an amateur? What is a professional? These questions are greatly disturbing intercollegiate athletics right now. Furthermore, they are due to disturb them far more before they stop disturbing. There are so many ways of deciding the matter that trouble is sure to ensue. The A. A. U. has one manner of disposing of the question and almost every college or university in the country has another way. The most ridiculous way is that of the A. A. U., which says that any amateur "playing on the same team with or against a professional player" loses his amateur standing. The A. A. U. also, of course, insists that a man engaging in athletics "in any way, as participant or coach becomes a professional." There is no argument against this.

But let's talk about the A. A. U. further. That august body says that "any amateur playing with or against George Brickley, the Trinity fullback," will lose his amateur standing. Then why doesn't every college baseball team lose its amateur status after meeting a big league baseball team? Why doesn't every amateur golfer engaging in an open tourney lose his amateur standing? Why shouldn't every amateur tennis player lose his rating when playing with or against a professional in the open championship? Why should not every amateur lose his rating who engages in any sport with or against a professional in that sport?

Trinity College shows far more common sense than the average college when it says that George Brickley is playing football for fun, not money, and that he will not be allowed to represent the university in baseball. "Because he has played baseball for money." If this common sense construction had been put upon athletics in general, Jim Thorpe and the United States would not have made such fools of themselves in the last Olympics. If you recall, Thorpe was deprived of all his honors on the track in Sweden because he took a week for trying to play baseball down in the Carolinas. There was one last, all examples of the brainlessness of the A. A. U. officials. If the A. A. U. has lost support all around the country, it can blame the action taken in the Thorpe case. If Thorpe had taken money for track or football prowess, no complaint would have been made. But when it was found that he was a professional because of his baseball skill, "twas to laugh."

Much the same thing is true now in Brickley's case. So far as known he is far from being a real baseball player. He has played good football for Trinity, but he has never taken any money for that. As soon as the A. A. U. uses ordinary common sense in its rulings, so much the sooner will it be considered worthy of notice. As soon as the A. A. U. goes out after kickers and sells graduates and athletes, it will be considered worthy of notice. As soon as the A. A. U. finds more Kiviat and more Smiths, just so much the sooner will it be given attention by all who have sports and their general welfare most at heart. Amateur sports are thriving, but not because of the A. A. U. The great national body is so busy looking for the petty graft found in handicap fees and entrance fees that it cannot look beyond its nose. Its officers are so hooked up with dealers providing plaques, medals, and cups that they cannot do much else than to strut around in their own glory. Such a step would be to take attention in this Brickley case. He issues a new interview every hour. But the basic fact remains that amateurism is losing daily. The sooner colleges break away from game where a better for colleges. The sooner all amateur athletes trail along with the colleges, the better for them, too.

According to the Alumni Register, the official organ of Pennsylvania University graduates, it is time for the Red and Blue either to achieve something in athletics or withdraw from all intercollegiate competition. It says that out of some 15,000 alumni and undergraduates living in Philadelphia and vicinity, just 400 graduates and 1,200 undergraduates are members of the university. It calls attention to the fact that some 8,000 students attend the university and that the treasury shows a deficit of $20,000. The Alumni Register shows that numerous rules keep down the value for athletic teams to 125, many of whom are women, and that many a student has been a student for a college daily. It deplores the absence of conditions such as are found at English universities, where frequently nineteen cricket matches are being played at the same time. Pennsylvania is urged to do something radical or prepare to be a laughing stock. Such a step would be to take attention in this Brickley case. It seems a shame that an older and larger institution such as Pennsylvania should even consider abolishing athletics.

That affairs are in a sad state is shown by the rebuke given Pennsylvania students yesterday for their public jeering and hooting of the Quakers going down to defeat last Saturday on Franklin Field. "The conduct and the actions of some of our students in the cheering section during the Lafayette game were a disgrace and a stain to the fair name of Pennsylvania," I was accused by a man after the game and he commented upon the jeering, and said Pennsylvania did not deserve to win from now on in any athletic event. One of the Lafayette College representatives who visited me after the game yesterday said: "These are the words of the students of Pennsylvania. If such an address had been made at Georgetown, every student would have felt just as humiliated himself as was the speaker. College spirit must be at an extremely low ebb at Pennsylvania when students jeer a team merely because it is being defeated."

Those football officials who gathered like barnies to loom on the rough playing of Georgetown at Fordham must have been greatly disappointed. The Blue and Gray played a clean, tough contest, and not a complaint resulted. Several of the Fordham players are stiff and lame from their tussle with Excellence's gladiators, but not one was manhandled in an unfair manner. Roughness in football would disappear if the officials had nerve enough to stop it.

Kid Williams Refuses To Make Weight Limit

NEW ORLEANS, La., Nov. 4.—Kid Williams, of Baltimore, bantamweight champion of the world, will not meet Kid Herman, of this city, on November 8, refusing absolutely to weigh in at 116 pounds. The promoters have called off the match and Frankie Burns, of Jersey City, may replace Williams. This is the second time Williams has disappointed local promoters and it is expected that he will be offered no more bouts.

Daly Reproves Weyand For Shiftless Playing

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 4.—Coach Daly sent Captain Weyand and O'Hare to the sidelines yesterday, charging them with not taking the practice seriously. The scrubs had been hammering both these regulars. It took the varsity twelve rushes to score a touchdown from the scrubs five-yard line and when it was attempted again, O'Hanlon had to come into the line-up and kick a field goal. The second team groups every rush of the varsity. Gerhard, the scrum quarterback, ran fifty yards through the varsity team for a touchdown.

MAGNATES MEET AND PEACE TALK RISES

Garry Herrmann Presides At Conference in Cincinnati,
With Feds Attending.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 4.—That the Chicago Cubs are to pass into the hands of prominent Federal League magnates seemed assured, following conferences held here attended by Garry Herrmann, chairman of the national commission; Charles Weeghman, of the Chicago Cubs; C. P. Taft, principal owner of the Cubs, and Harry Sinclair, millionaire owner of the Newark Feds. No statement has been made by any of the attending magnates, but promises are held out that one will be forthcoming within a few days.

The friendly attitude of Herrmann toward the Federal magnates indicates very plainly that progress had been made, the lines devised by both organized baseball and the Federal League. Sinclair had a conference with C. P. Taft in the morning, but both parties refused to make any statement as to the final result of their confab.

It is known that Weeghman and Walker are anxious to purchase the Cubs and thus become National League magnates. They made an attempt to do so last night, but were baffled by the price put on the club by its owners. The Cubs are valued at a losing year, and it is thought that the club can be purchased at this time for less than was asked for it last fall. It looks now very likely that a deal for the Cubs will be made shortly.

It is also probable that Harry Sinclair, the Oklahoma oil magnate, who has succeeded the late Robert Ward as the principal backer of the Feds, will buy the National York Nationals, as that club is for sale at a price. These deals will doubtless be supplemented by the purchase of the St. Louis Cardinals by the St. Louis Cardinals, which have cost him a bundle of coin.

PENN LOSES STARS ON EVE OF COMBAT

Three Regulars Disqualified,
Captain Harris Demoted,
and Howard Berry Quits.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 4.—On the eve of the championship game with Dartmouth, Pennsylvania loses three regulars because of low standing in class. Captain Harris is demoted and Howard Berry, considered one of the stars of the backfield, resigns. The football outlook for the Red and Blue never was more gloomy.

Further, it is hinted that disension has appeared among the coaches. An overwhelming defeat by Dartmouth is expected to bring radical changes at old Penn. Ray Grant, being groomed for quarterback, Vincent Walsh, halfback, and Bill Stuck, end, have been disqualified for academic deficiencies. Captain Russell's poor work recently, due largely to his lack of time for practice, has caused his demotion to the second eleven. He claims that the coaches blame him for their own weaknesses and that, while he is willing to remain with the scrubs, he will not endure criticism that should be directed at the coaches.

The Quaker squad departed today for Boston, where the final signal drill will be held at Fenway Park. The student cheering section will leave at noon tomorrow.

Whitman Wins.

The Whitman School was returned a winner over the Grant School team at the National Capital City Horse Show grounds by 4 to 1 in soccer yesterday.
